Ash Crescent CFW NEIGHBORHOOD WI-FI IS HERE!

The City of Fort Worth is now providing free public Wi-Fi access to underserved neighborhoods. CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi is a free service available in five neighborhoods and will help people work virtually, provide resources for students at home, allow for virtual doctor's appointments, assist with job searches, and applying for assistance and benefits. CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi availability builds upon the free Wi-Fi connectivity that is currently available at local libraries and community centers, CFW Guest Wi-Fi.

How to Access CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi

Go to settings on your phone or tablet. Turn on the Wi-Fi setting and press on "CFW Neighborhood" as your Wi-Fi network. Agree to the terms of usage.

If CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi is not available at your location, you can access CFW Guest Wi-Fi at the following locations:

Ash Crescent

- Hillside Community Center: 1201 E. Maddox Ave.
- Sycamore Community Center: 2525 E. Rosedale St.
- Southside Community Center: 959 E. Rosedale St.
- Ella Mae Shamblee Library: 1062 Evans Ave.

CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi FAQs

Q: What neighborhoods have access to CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi?

A: Free Neighborhood Wi-Fi is available now in Ash Crescent, Lake Como, Northside, and Rosemont neighborhoods. The service will be available in Stop Six this fall.

Q: What's the purpose?

A: The city recognizes the importance of home internet access in our daily lives and is making a long-term commitment to improving access citywide. A large number of Fort Worth residents lack home internet access, making it difficult to attend online classes, apply for jobs or tap into other social service resources.

Q: Who pays for it?

A: The city has designated $5 million in federal CARES Act funds for this project. The Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security (CARES) Act was passed in March 2020 to provide a variety of assistance to those affected by the coronavirus. To supplement the (CARES) funding, which expired at the end of 2021, the City also allocated money from the American Recovery Planning Act (ARPA) to complete the delivery and provide for ongoing support.

Q: How does CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi work?

A: Crews have installed equipment on utility poles near city facilities that offer CFW Guest Wi-Fi. Using radio technology, the equipment relays the city's wireless signal so that it reaches into the neighborhood. Anyone with a Wi-Fi-enabled device, such as a smart phone or laptop, can use the signal to access the internet.

Q: How were the areas chosen? Why not my neighborhood?

A: The city identified the areas through its Neighborhood Improvement Program, which relies on data such as household income, poverty and crime rates to concentrate improvements where they're needed most. All five neighborhoods also have low internet subscription rates. Home internet subscription rate is now included as a metric of the Neighborhood Improvement Program and will be considered in selection of neighborhoods for future public investment.

Q: How do I use the city's public Wi-Fi at home?

A:

1. Go to settings on your phone or tablet.
2. Turn on the Wi-Fi setting on your smart phone, laptop, or tablet.
3. Select "CFW Neighborhood" as your Wi-Fi network.
4. Agree to the terms of usage.

Q: If I don't have access to CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi, what are my options?

A: CFW Guest Wi-Fi is available at all city facilities, libraries and community centers. CFW Guest Wi-Fi is location-specific, but the signal can be accessed from outside the building. For indoor use of a work station at a library or community center, check the location's hours of operation.

At all Fort Worth Public Libraries, hotspot devices are available for checkout with a valid library card. For more information about getting a library card, visit: fortworthtexas.gov/departments/library/services/resident-library-card.

Students may also have the option to checkout a hotspot device from their school. Contact your student's school for more information.

Q: Where is my closest location to access CFW Guest Wi-Fi if CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi is not available to me?

A: Locations in each neighborhood are listed below:

Lake Como

- Lake Como Community Center: 4660 Horne St. • Ridglea Library: 3628 Anderson Ave.

Northside

- Northside Community Center: 1100 NW 18th St. .
- North Tri-Ethnic Community Center: 2950 Roosevelt Ave. • Northside Library: 601 Park St.

Rosemont

- Victory Forest Community Center: 3427 Hemphill St. • Greenbriar Community Center: 5200 Hemphill St.
- La Gran Biblioteca: 4200 South Fwy Suite 1338

Ash Crescent

- Hillside Community Center: 1201 E. Maddox Ave. • Sycamore Community Center: 2525 E. Rosedale St. • Southside Community Center: 959 E. Rosedale St. • Ella Mae Shamblee Library: 1062 Evans Ave.

Stop Six

- Eugene McCray Community Center: 4932 Wilbarger St. • Martin Luther King Community Center: 5565 Truman Dr. • Meadowbrook Library: 2800 Stark St.
- East Berry Library: 4300 E. Berry St.

Q: Are there restrictions on the CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi?

A: The CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi won't be as reliable as a purchased Internet service, but most homes will be able to access many online services such as virtual doctor's appointments, job searches, virtual learning for students, and applications for assistance and benefits. It is filtered so some streaming, gaming and other websites may be blocked to ensure all accessible websites are family-friendly.

Q: What can affect my connection to CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi?

A: Weather, trees and power lines could affect the strength of the signal at your home. If "CFW Neighborhood" does not appear using the connection steps, your location may be too far from the signal. Please note the signal is strongest at the street, so try to access the Wi-Fi in different areas of your home and property.

Q: Will my connection to the Wi-Fi be tracked?

A: The City will not collect or track information of CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi users.

Q: What do I do if city public Wi-Fi is not working?

A: First, troubleshoot your device settings:

- Is the Wi-Fi setting turned on?
- Have you selected CFW NEIGHBORHOOD as your network?

If you still cannot access CFW Neighborhood Wi-Fi, call 817-392-1234. Describe the problem and your location. A service request will be made, and you'll be given a tracking number to follow progress on the request. For more information, please visit fortworthtexas.gov/neighborhood-wifi or call 817-392-1234. This phone number is for troubleshooting your connection issues, but you can also call to provide feedback about the Wi-Fi.

Ten Ways to Celebrate National Family Literacy Month

National Family Literacy Month is celebrated during the month of November. National Family Literacy Month is an opportunity for families to learn and read together. It also celebrates the work literacy programs do to empower families. Kristina Collins, co-director and clinical instructor of the Literacy Education program at Loyola University Maryland, shares her top ten ways families can celebrate National Family Literacy Month.

1. Visit your local library with your family. In addition to books, find out about all the programming your library has to offer. You'd be surprised that many offer classes, workshops, movie nights, reading groups, and more for all ages on a vast variety of topics.
2. Join and participate in a book club or start a book club. Make it fun and get creative with your book club meeting by having activities or serve food related to the books your group is reading.
3. Try reading in a different format. If you are used to printed books, try reading via audiobooks or digital books. Many public libraries and universities have books that patrons can borrow digitally. You can download audiobooks and digital books to any smart device such as a phone, tablet, or laptop for free.
4. Attend a book festival together. Book festivals are held nationally and locally. It's a wonderful opportunity to meet authors, explore a huge variety of genres, meet people, and share the joy of reading. If there is not a festival happening in your area, talk to your local chamber of commerce to see how you can develop one in your community.
5. Create a book exchange in your neighborhood. Simply set up a small container (some folks have used large birdhouses or mailboxes) to house the books and protect them from the elements and a sign that reads, "Take a book, leave a book," for your neighbors to share books.
6. Donate books. Everyone has at least a few books that they have read and that are now lying on a shelf someplace in their home waiting for eager eyes to read them again. Consider donating your gently used books to a local charity. Save the environment by also recycling damaged books rather than tossing them in the garbage.
7. Share the love and joy of reading. Volunteer to read to patients in the hospital, to children in preschool, or to the elderly in a nursing facility. It costs nothing to be kind and to share your time with those who could use your smile and an open book.

8. Write a note. Writing is a major part of literacy. Consider writing notes of appreciation, thanks, or love to the special people in your life. The recipient of such note will appreciate the time and effort you took to hand-write it along with the sentiments you expressed.

9. Discuss what you've read. Whenever we experience something good, we talk about it. Talk about the books that excite you to people around you at work, at home, on the train, or anywhere. Share what was interesting, provocative, or amusing. Your excitement will be contagious and cause your listener to want to read as well.

10. Read, read, and read some more. Read about any and everything that interests you. No matter what it may be, read for the enjoyment of reading. If you are having a hard time deciding, try a curated book list like the <https://www.goodreads.com/shelf/show/100-books-to-read-before-you-die>.
